Dear [Redacted]

b6 -2

I am a retired FBI Agent and Senior Executive, last serving as a Section Chief in CID in 1994.

Enclosed is the manuscript for a book to be published this year by AMACOM, the publishing arm of the American Management Association, for your review. I mention the FBI several times in passing, but it is not an "FBI" book.

If you have any questions please feel free to call me at [Redacted]

Re: Manuscript to be published by AMACOM

Dear Mr. Koletar,

The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) received your submission on March 6, 2009, requesting prepublication review of your manuscript titled, "Women of the Long Gray Line."

The FBI's prepublication review policy provides for a review period of thirty business days not counting the day of receipt. This review period can be extended depending upon the complexity of the materials being reviewed, but in most cases the reviews are completed within the thirty business day period. A review of your submission is in progress and we will advise of the results upon completion.

Should you have any questions, please contact [Redacted] at 540-868-1967. Thank you for your participation in the FBI's prepublication review process.

Re: Manuscript to be published by AMACOM

Dear Mr. Koletar,

This letter is in response to the March 6, 2009, submission for review, pursuant to the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) Prepublication Review Policy (PRP) (Manual of Administrative Operations and Procedures (MAOP), Part I, 1-24), of your manuscript to be published by AMACOM.

The article was reviewed pursuant to the terms of the PRP and it was concluded that nothing contained in the submission fell within a restricted area of disclosure. Therefore, there is no objection to your making the manuscript, as presented, for publication.

You may include your former title or position as a biographical detail if it is given no more prominence than other significant biographical details, and if it is accompanied by a reasonably prominent disclaimer advising that the views expressed in the article do not necessarily represent the views of the FBI.

Also, I just want to check my understanding. We have edited since you approved the previous chapters. We didn't add anything of an investigative nature, but we dropped the child pornography idea. (That must be reassuring for [redacted] to hear.) Anyway, do you want to review the edited manuscript? Thanks. Rosemary

I know you sent me the draft letter via WordPerfect on December 18, 2008, but I wrote back to you about a week ago to let you know that I can't read or open WordPerfect documents. I can only read and open Microsoft Word documents. I also remember you saying about a week ago that you would mail me (a printed out copy of the requested amendments/changes) the changes for the proposed book, but I have received nothing in the mail. Again, my address is:

Kristi Fable

I hope I receive the changes/amendments soon so that I can re-submit all to you.

Subject: Proposed Book: "Good Judgment Does Not Embarrass The Bureau"

Dear [redacted] b6 -2

Over a month ago, I e-mailed you the proposed book for review by F.B.I. Headquarters. Later, I e-mailed you some pictures for perusal by F.B.I. Headquarters. My father, if you recall, was a Special Agent of the F.B.I. and shared information with me that I included in the book. To protect my father from harm, I sent the proposed book for review.

I have a Literary Agent who would like to market the book as soon as possible and has graciously been waiting for over 30 days. I had to tell the Literary Agent that the F.B.I. needed more time to consider the contents of the proposed book. It's important to me that I deliver the book to my Literary Agent as quickly as I can, and I'm hopeful you will be able to complete the review of the book within the near future.

How much more time do you think the F.B.I. Headquarters will need? Your help is always appreciated.

Sincerely,

Kristi Fable

Re: Manuscript titled, "Good Judgement Does Not Embarrass the Bureau"

Dear Ms. Fable,

This letter is in response to your submission of a manuscript titled, "Good Judgement Does Not Embarrass the Bureau," for review pursuant to the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Prepublication Review Policy (PRP)(Manual of Administrative Operations and Procedures, Part I, 1-24).

The manuscript was reviewed pursuant to the terms of the PRP and the reviewer noted the following listed matters which require amendment/correction:

1. On page 60, the fourth paragraph, the second and third sentences in their entirety. These sentences reference electronic surveillance techniques and we request that they are excluded from the manuscript.

2. On page 80, the third paragraph, referring to [Redacted] and his son defecting. The end to the paragraph refers to the family hosting them in NY. We request that you provide your source of this information and name it in the manuscript (ie the NY Times reported...). We do not want to confirm that a particular family hosted the [Redacted] visit in NY, thereby causing potential harm to the family.

b6 -1

3. Lastly, there is concern regarding the photos that were submitted to be included in the manuscript. The passport photos submitted are property of the State Department, therefore we do not have authorization to release these photos. In addition, the surveillance photos that were submitted are considered property of the FBI and should have been filed with the case folder. Had these photos been released as a Freedom of Information/Privacy Act request, they would be releaseable. However, they were not obtain in this format, therefore they are not releaseable.

Hi [REDACTED]

b6 -2

Sorry, it has taken me so long to make those simple corrections. I've been busy [REDACTED]

b6 -1

On page 60, the fourth paragraph, the second and third sentences in their entirety. The sentences that referenced electronic surveillance techniques were taken out.

On page 80, the third paragraph, I took the part out completely about a particular family hosting the [REDACTED] visit in NY. My father was the source of all of that information. So, I could not quote "The New York Times." My father couldn't understand why the family that hosted [REDACTED] could be potentially harmed, but it doesn't matter. I took it out.

I took all photographs out. Do I now have permission to give this book to a Literary Agent to publish it? The letter said that David M. Hardy, Section Chief Record/Information Dissemination Sections Records Management Division should receive this copy of the amended pages. [REDACTED] was also mentioned. In other words, I was supposed to contact [REDACTED] if I had any questions. I don't. Okay? So, you'll give this amended version to the right person. Then, you'll send me a letter stating the book is okay to publish? Thanks in advance.

I have attached my novel for pre-publication review to this e-mail message. (I decided to send it via FBINET because it is a restricted access system.) To give you a little background, my name is John E. Bandy, Jr. and I am [REDACTED] [REDACTED] My novel deals primarily with domestic terrorism, but touches on international terrorism as well. All of the information contained in the novel was obtained through open source material and my own imagination. It does not relate to my current job with the FBI, nor to my former job with [REDACTED]. And, I have made considerable effort to avoid any direct reference to any actual sources or methods. However, due to the nature of the subject, the story does mention several government agencies. I am aware that as [REDACTED] my written material must be reviewed by the Bureau. I have also been told that because I am a former [REDACTED] must also review my written material prior to publication. (I only mention this, because I'm not clear on whether your FBI review will cover the legal requirement, or whether you will also be forwarding the novel to those government entities that you deem relevant.) Please advise if you need anything more from me to complete this process. Thank you very much for your consideration.
